10,000 Here Protest Terrorist Incident at Maalot

By LAWRENCE VAN GELDER

Angered and dismayed by the death of Israeli children in the terrorist incident at Maalot, more than 10,000 Jewish youngsters, rabbis, public officials and other sympathizers took part here yesterday in demonstrations of protest. And while crowds chanted, prayed, waved placards and carried symbolic coffins, and while some demonstrators, including Eugene Gold, the Brooklyn District Attorney, chained themselves to a fence at the United Nations, leaders of various religious organizations issued statements of condemnation, outrage, shock and grief.

Appearing at the main demonstration, at Dag Hammarskjold Plaza, Mayor Beame told participants it was "a day of shock and sorrow for Israelis, for Jews around the world and for men and women everywhere who cherish human lives and pray for peace."

"At least seven persons were reported arrested on charges of disorderly conduct during the demonstrations, which led to the closing of the United Nations to visitors at midday. United Nations security guards and city policemen, some of them mounted, some helmeted and some using bullhorns, dispersed the crowds.

Although most of the demonstrations were focused on the United Nations area, representatives of the American Jewish Congress, led by Theodore Bikel, co-chairman of the organization's national governing council, staged another protest outside the Lebanese Consulate at 9 East 76th Street. Earlier in the day, Elmer L. Winter, the president of the American Jewish Committee, said at a news conference that the United States must take the lead at the United Nations Security Council in pressing for a resolution "against Arab barbarism at Maalot."

At the demonstration at Dag Hammarskjold Plaza to protest Arab terrorist activities, Arnold Forster, associate director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, one of the sponsoring organizations, asserted

"The world doesn't care too much about Jews being killed. We must make clear that the world is guilty, that the terrorist are sub-human, mindless savages who must be stamped out. But the responsibility is across the street [at the United Nations]."

Mrs. Rose E. Matzkin, president of Hadassah, the Women's

Zionist Organization of America, said the United Nations "must bear the brunt of the responsibility for each new assault upon Israeli lives."

And Herman L. Weisman, president of the Zionist Organization of America, said the incident at Maalot "constitutes a damning spot on the conscience of every nation that has pardoned sentenced terrorists or voted to condemn Israel for acting in self-defense."

Expressing grief and indignation, Cardinal Cooke issued a statement that said: "We call upon all governments and the people they serve to unite in excluding from their borders and their society all those terrorists who murder for political purposes or partisan goals."

In a joint statement, the two top officials of the National Council of Churches expressed "grief and disgust at the appalling acts of violence in the village of Maalot, and today's bombing over Lebanese territory."

District Attorney Gold and four New York rabbis — Hasckel Lookstein, Seven Riskin, Avraham Weiss and Solomon Bernstein — who chained themselves to a United Nations fence were cut loose by the police. They were not arrested.

United Nations security guards dispersed the youngsters who invaded the grounds of the organization.

Messages From Jan Smuts

as Convention Opens

PALESTINE WAR AID CITED

Role as Refuge for Persons of
All Faiths and Fighting
Factor Reviewed

With a message from General Jan Christian Smuts, Prime Minister of South Africa, expressing "the strong hope that the present world crisis would mark a long step forward toward the realization of the Zionist vision," and other messages lauding the contribution of Palestine Jews to the United Nations' war effort, the forty-fifth annual convention of the Zionist Organization of America opened last night at the Hotel New Yorker.

The convention, which will be devoted not only to the problems of the Zionist movement but also to the plight of millions of Jews throughout the world, is attended by 1,000 delegates, representing various branches of the organization throughout the country.

In a message to the opening meeting of the National Administrative Council of the organization, Harold Butler, British Minister attached to the British Ministry of Information in this country, praised the organization's "great contribution to the struggle being made by all the democratic powers against that hostile coalition, the head of which is also the principal foe of Jewry."

Lehman Sends Message

Governor Lehman, in another message, said:

"Palestine has become a symbol of democracy throughout the world. It is a place where men may live, think, and speak as they will. In the past five years, it has been a most important refuge to thousands of all faiths who have been driven from their homes in Europe by brutality, cruelty and oppression. The American people have realized how important a place Palestine now holds in the world scheme of freedom, democracy and security."

Presiding at the meeting of the council, Dr. James G. Heller, president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, who is Rabbi of the Isaac M. Wise Temple in Cincinnati, deplored the "abyssal lethargy and callousness" of the world in its attitude toward the plight of the Jew. The Zionists, he warned, must exercise a "mighty effort to awaken the world to the desperate status of the Jew and the need for a statesmanlike approach to the solution of this problem."

Simon Snetzer, executive director, reported that the Zionist Organization of America now had a paid-up membership of 50,000, the largest in its history, bringing the total membership of the parent and its affiliated organizations to 165,000.

"We feel," he said, "that every new member now is a recruit in the fight of the United Nations. If we were to subtract from the scene in the Middle East all that the Zionists have accomplished in Palestine, there would be a gap that would not be little felt by the forces holding up the Nazi hordes."

War Aid of Jews Cited

Judge Louis E. Levinthal of the Court of Common Pleas, Philadelphia, president of the organization, who will deliver the presidential address tonight, pointed to the "significant contribution of Palestine Jewry to the war effort of the United Nations," saying more than 19,000 Jews of Palestine were already serving under arms, with thousands more ready to enlist in the ranks of a separate Jewish fighting force as soon as one was formed.

Bernard A. Rosenblatt, chairman of the Palestine Foundation Fund, told the council that "investment in the Zionist effort is beginning to return great dividends to the Jewish people."

Before the meeting of the council, a special Hebrew culture and Jewish education session was held under the joint auspices of the Zionist Organization of America and the Histadruth Ivrit. This was in the form of a symposium presided over by Samuel J. Borowsky of New York.

Morning, noon and evening sessions will be held as the convention continues through Sunday.

This meeting attracted an overflow crowd to the Jewish Community Center auditorium which was quickly filled, and other rooms had to be used to provide accommodation for those who wished to hear the address of Rabbi James G. Heller over the loud speaker.

Dr. Heller, chairman of the Administrative Committee of the Zionist Organization of America, devoted the greater part of his address to a defense of the Zionist movement, and was particularly emphatic in denying charges brought against the Zionists by representatives of the American Council for Judaism. This latter organization has recently been very active in the San Francisco Bay area. Supporters of the American Council for Judaism have recently attacked the Zionist program for its primarily "political" and "nationalistic" aims. In Zionist over-emphasis on "political activities" these anti-Zionists see the danger of dual loyalty which might result in the subordination of American interests to those of a Jewish National State.

In answer to these arguments Dr. Heller vigorously repudiated the idea of dual allegiance, except sense that Jews should be true both to their faith and to their country of adoption. American Zionists were no less patriotic than any other Americans, Dr. Heller asserted. In his opinion nothing could be more in keeping with the spiritual mission of Judaism than the provision of a national homeland for persecuted Jews.

On the question of the number of Jewish immigrants Palestine could absorb Dr. Heller expressed the belief that further land utilization resulting from new irrigation projects would permit an increase of perhaps 4,000,000 in the Jewish population. Progress in industrialization would in all probability add to this estimate. Thus, said Dr. Heller, Palestine might easily absorb the 1,300,000 Jews who had fled from Poland to Soviet Russia, and who in his opinion were not anxious either to return to Poland or to remain in the USSR.

Dr. Heller estimated the number of Jews in occupied Europe to be 2,000,000. He feared, however, that this number would be reduced to "a mere handful" if the Nazis remained in control for another year.

Dr. Heller restated the Zionist program favoring Jewish immigration into Palestine and a democratic regime in that country once the Jews had won a majority. He pointed out that the setting up of democratic machinery now (as decided by the American Council of Judaism) would in his view play into the hands of the Arabs and other anti-Jewish elements.

British foreign and colonial policy was discussed with considerable bitterness. Dr. Heller expressed the hope, however, that the combination of new international controls and the more liberal political attitude of the British people would in time combine to ease the tension between Great Britain and the Jews. While the "White Paper" would not be repudiated by the British Government its anti-Jewish clauses would gradually be set aside, Dr. Heller believed.

A good deal of attention was paid to the "democratic" and "representative" character of the American Jewish Conference. According to Dr. Heller, about eighty per cent of the delegates to the Conference were Zionists who had been chosen by American Jews in an election which gave all Jewish groups the opportunity to secure proper representation. No protests of unfair electoral methods had been brought before a special board of elections set up by the Conference. Moreover, he affirmed, the Conference had proved its "democratic" character by winning the affiliation of Jewish organizations which represented fifty per cent of the total American Jewish community and "a tremendous majority" of the adult American Jews who have interested themselves in political matters.

[REDACTED] advised that he was well acquainted with the Zionist Organization of America, usually referred to as the ZOA, and indicated that it was an old, well established Jewish relief agency which was interested in the founding of a Jewish state in Palestine. He indicated that this organization had been very active in the last few years in attempting to assist the present Jewish colonists in Palestine by raising relief funds among Jewish people in the United States. He indicated that he was well acquainted with many of the members of the ZOA in Milwaukee and that they included most of the prominent businessmen and professional men of this city. [REDACTED] stated that the ZOA was a national organization with headquarters in New York City and with branches in all of the larger cities of the United States. He advised that that organization was presently actively soliciting relief funds for the purpose of providing food, clothing and tools for the people of Palestine and indicated that all funds and relief goods were being transmitted with the knowledge of and consent of the proper authorities. He indicated that the present chairman of the Milwaukee Zionist District was Dr. L. W. BLUMENTHAL, a well known Milwaukee dentist. He advised that to the best of his knowledge none of the members of this organization in Milwaukee were attempting to raise funds for the purchase of arms and ammunition in order to enable the Jewish colonizers in Palestine to fight the Arabs.

The files of the Milwaukee Journal newspaper relative to the ZOA reflected that the organization has been in existence for many years with the purpose of promoting the large scale Jewish colonization of Palestine. They indicate that one of the national officers of the organization was Rabbi STEPHEN S. WISE of New York City. They also indicate that they had been active in bringing the Jewish colonization desires to the proper United Nations committees on various occasions. The files also indicated that the following individuals in Milwaukee are members and former officers of the ZOA branch in Milwaukee:

[REDACTED] of the Advisory Committee on Foreign Aid, advised Agent that the subject organization is not recorded with that committee. It is pointed out that the committee functioned during the war under the name of War Relief Control Board until May, 1946, and that since then, the Advisory Committee on Voluntary Foreign Aid has been recording, on a voluntary basis, organizations engaged in raising funds for relief purposes and transmitting them to the respective foreign countries.
